Te a hua o Te Turunga / THE NATURE OF THE POSITION

We are seeking a person to coordinate and provide the delivery of spiritual care. You will provide empathetic support that is inclusive, non-denominational and embraces the emotional, social and cultural needs of not only those we care for but for those you will be working alongside at North Haven Hospice.

Ko waimatou / WHO WE ARE:

Our mahi embraces a kindness and a personalized, specialized, level of care; this is what we offer to everyone we have the privilege of walking alongside. Whether you are a patient with a life-limiting condition, their family/whanau, or one of our members of staff here at North Haven Hospice, we care about you and together we make a difference.

What can we offer you?

- An amazing whanau of colleagues to work with
- An opportunity to support those we care for through end of life and in bereavement through presence, assessment and coordination of resources.
- A chance to develop your skills, knowledge and career within a supportive and nurturing and environment.
- Paid external professional supervision.

Don't take our word for it! Here's what the team have to say about North Haven Hospice:

"A cohesive team of caring and compassionate people" – Social Worker

"North Haven Hospice is a very special place and I often find myself demystifying people's preconceived ideas about palliative care and hospice." – Registered Nurse

Nga Tino Pukenga / WHAT WILL YOU BRING?

- Spiritual care training or experience, preferably in the areas of health, death, dying, loss and grief.
- Skills to proactively explore spirituality and identify potential areas of need and development for patients, family/whanau and staff.
- Evidence of being fully vaccinated against COVID-19.

- Membership of a professional body or working within a spiritual care framework that includes a non-denominational approach.
- A current clean NZ class 1 driving licence.
- Compassion and empathy in caring for patients and their family/whanau at the end of life.
- A commitment to developing your knowledge and professional development
- A willingness to be part of our team.
